SATURDAY EVEN'G., NOVEMBER 7.

AN INCIDENT. - The Charlottesville Chronicle gives the following remarkable incident: "Old Mark Kailer was a citizen of Augusta county, and it has not been a decade since he emigrated to the 'undiscovered country.' Mark was somewhat eccentric, as an evidence of which we may state that he procured his secend wife by purchase for the extravagant sum of five dollars, and was married in a full suit of ted flannel. The money for the spouse was paid to the agent who did the courting, and not to the sir dame, who gave herself up without money and without price.' As may be readily imag-ined, Mrs. Kallar was not the most exemplary of wives, and a brief acquaintance demonstrated the fact that she was as fond of the bottle as Mark himself. The couple in this particular were well matched, and passed many years together with great satisfaction and remarkable most durable an marmony. One summer day, however, the old man was made a widower in a shocking manner. The couple started on foot for the county seat, and Mark being more active than the old tady had advanced considerably ahead. The madam trudged along leisurely, smoking her pipe, when by some means or other her clothing caught fire, and she was burned there in the public road literally to a crisp. Two gentlemen on horseback, on their way to Staunton, came suddenly upon the roasted body of the poor creature, and stood horrified at the ghastly spectacle. One of them rode ahead, and overtaking the old man informed him of the terrible occurrence. Mark expressed no emotion, but, turning around with a grunt, retraced his st-ps and soon reached the scene of the terrible caturophe. There lay the blackened corpse of his wife so charred and disfigured as scarcely to be recognized. Mark walked with a cane, and hobbling up to the body he gave it a punch or so with the stick, standing over it in a nall bent posture. After surveying it and punching it to his satisfaction, he poid the following elequent and pathetic tribute to the memory of the deceased: 'Humpb! I told her she'd better leave her pipe at home! Now what'll I do for a housekeeper?" The above facts are literally true, and were detailed to us by a gentleman whose eyes beheld the affecting scene and whose ears heard the touching apostrophe."
